

MOSSACK FONSECA CLARIFIES INFORMATION ABOUT THE UNAUTHORIZED ACCESS TO OUR SERVERS

Panama, April 26, 2016. Mossack Fonseca disputes various media reports published on or about Friday, April 22, 2016, in which it was asserted that "there is still no evidence of a hack" (referring to the theft of electronic records from the servers of the Mossack Fonseca firm).

The media reports that suggested a hack had not occurred were inconsistent with the findings of the relevant competent authority, Engineer Luis Rivera, of the Panamanian Computer Forensics Department of the Public Ministry. Mr. Rivera's preliminary analysis concluded that it was indeed an improper entry, or hack, of private information from our servers.

Mossack Fonseca hereby reaffirms that the recent incident in question was a crime, to wit, the theft of information from our servers, as evidenced by the inspection thus far conducted by local authorities in their investigation of this matter.
